Good Samaritans: River City students aid injured woman

Kerina Brummett and Vanessa Holmes

A week ago this past Sunday, at around 9:30 in the evening, River City High School senior Vanessa Holmes, and her sister, River City High School freshman Kerina Brummett, were driving home after drying some laundry when they accidentally took a wrong turn and found themselves in the state streets just off Park Boulevard. As they began to correct their mistake, Kerina suddenly spotted an elderly lady lying face down on one of the sidewalks, told her older sister what she had seen, and Vanessa immediately swung their car around to go to the woman's aid.

"When we reached her," explained Vanessa, "I bent down and asked her if she was okay, and she said she didn't know. She tried to roll over on her side but it was obvious that she was badly hurt and I encouraged her not to move. She must have been there for quite awhile because there was a lot of dried blood on the sidewalk where her face had been. She told me she couldn't remember falling down and that her arm hurt really bad. My sister tried to call the police on her cell phone but couldn't get through, and then a neighbor came out to help us and was able to get hold of the lady's daughter and then it wasn't too long before help arrived."

"It turned out that my mother had a broken arm and was very seriously injured," said Carol Davis, the woman's daughter, "and the two girls who stopped to help her made a very good decision. They could have decided not to get involved and just driven off, and if they had, who knows how long my mother may have lain there. Instead, they stayed with her until the fire department arrived and Vanessa even left me a phone number where I could reach her and asked me to call her and let her know how everything turned out, which I thought was very nice of her."

The elderly lady, in her 80's, had apparently taken her dog outside when she lost her balance and fell. In addition to a broken arm, she also needed eye surgery.

"I thought that might have been what happened," said Vanessa, "because a little dog came over and licked the woman's arm while we were waiting for help. Anyway, the important thing is that she is okay now and my sister and I are both glad we stopped to help."

"In an era when so many of our young people are always being criticized for making poor decisions," added Davis, "I think it's really important that we acknowledge Vanessa and Kerina for making a very good decision, and my family and I are truly grateful for what they did for my mother."

For being good Samaritans, Vanessa and Kerina were given four Sacramento River Cats tickets by River City High School Principal Mort Geivett, and the West Sacramento Fire Department also plans to honor them later with an official citation.

City, police union may have a deal

A contentious labor contract negotiation between West Sacramento and its police union may come to an end tonight when the city council votes on a tentative bargain.

"It has been a very long and arduous process," said city human resources manager Ellen Nakata-Harper. "We went into mediation in January and reached agreement on June 1. What's proposed is a four-and-a-half year agreement."

The agreement is retroactive to July of 2004.

Officers, sergeants and civilian employees will receive a lump sum payment of three percent of their salaries to cover the first year of the contract. Then they'll receive a five percent raise effective June of 2005, followed by twice-yearly raises of two percent or more each through 2008. Officers and sergeants will also see better retirement terms.

1.5 pounds of marijuana

A West Sacramento police officer on Friday saw a 1996 Chevrolet Blazer driven by a 24-year old Sacramento man in violation of some part of the state vehicle code, and pulled the car over. Driver Derick Justin Alandale Taylor had a suspended license.

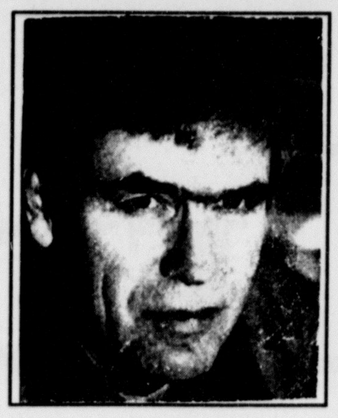
The car was towed, and Taylor was noted to be in possession of over $1000.

As the car was being inventoried for storage, about 1.5 pounds of marijuana were found in it.

The Yolo County Narcotics Enforcement Task Force (YONET) was notified, and Taylor was contacted again and arrested, said the West Sacramento Police Dept.

Remembering Sergeant Jim Gratton

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

A kind of remarkable thing happened to me this past Memorial Day. It actually started a week or so before Memorial Day, when out of the blue I received an email from a very nice man named Dave Fesmire, a member of the 1st Infantry Division's Darkhorse Troop that I had served with in Vietnam, and he had apparently put together a website that included information on the Aero Rifle Platoon (ARPS) that had been my home from July 4th of 1969 to July 5th of 1970. Anyway, a friend of his had somehow got hold of an old News-Ledger column I had written memorializing Michael Lawhon, a soldier in my squad who had been killed in the war, and Dave wanted to invite me to check out his website and also attend a reunion the unit is holding later this summer in San Antonio, Texas. Although I really had no intention of going to a Vietnam War reunion, I did find myself reading every word on the wonderful website Dave had put together and also reluctantly dusting off the cobwebs on some very old memories. When I had finished, I decided to email Dave back and ask him one very big favor, and our exchange over the Internet went something like this.

"Dave, would you happen to know what ever became of Jim Gratton, who was my squad leader when I was first with the ARPS? He was the most remarkable soldier I met in Vietnam, and he was responsible on more than one occasion for helping me get my butt safely back to the world. Do you happen to have an email address for him where I could send him a little `thank you' note?"

"Gratton went to our last reunion and is alive and well and living just north of you up in Willits," came the surprising reply, "but he doesn't do computers. Here's his phone number and I'm sure he would be glad to hear from you."

As our exchange of emails continued, I tried to explain to Dave that I would never think of calling up Sergeant Gratton out of the blue (I wasn't even sure he would remember me), and that I had made a conscious effort over the years not to contact any of the guys I had known in the war, the goal being to keep a little promise I had made to myself when I left Vietnam to leave as many of those memories as possible there. Anyway, since Dave didn't have a mailing address for Jim, he had just kindly agreed to hand-carry a letter from me and give it to him at the reunion, when my office phone suddenly rang. Unbeknownst to me, Dave had apparently decided to cut to the chase and on the other end of the line was a deep and matter-of-fact voice saying, "Is this Fisher?"

"This is Fisher," I answered, not having a clue who was calling.

"This is Jim Gratton, and of course I remember you. I even remember the day you were wounded. I didn't realize you lived so close. How are you?"

It had been more than 35 years since I had heard the voice of Jim Gratton, but it was still as forceful and commanding as ever, even though I learned he was recovering from open heart surgery, the result of many years of smoking and some serious hard living. He also told me he had recently left the Bay Area to live on 20 peaceful acres up in the redwoods and that I had an open invitation to visit him any time I wished.

As our conversation continued, I tried to tell Jim how much I appreciated all he had done for me while I was in his squad, but he would have none of it. Like any soldier who has seen war for what it really is, he knows that heroes aren't made in heaven, they are simply cornered someplace on earth, and he is genuinely modest about his actions while under fire, although I know for a fact that they resulted in both the Silver Star and the Bronze Star for valor. And when I would remind him of some of the truly courageous things I personally saw him do, he would only say that we were all in it together, and that he had been too busy at the time to really remember any of it in much detail.

And it wasn't just Jim's specific actions that often saved the day for the Aero Rifle Platoon in general and our point squad in particular, it was the way he went about doing things. He was by nature aggressive and fearless, and when an ambush or firefight would erupt, while most everyone else was just trying to find cover and make sense out of all the chaos, he was fighting back. And even if he wasn't exactly sure where the enemy was, grenades were flying out of his hand and his loud rifle fire was making our attackers think twice about sticking their heads up too high. He seemed to intuitively understand what most soldiers (especially young ones new to combat) don't, that a good offense is the key to a good defense, and his courage and fighting spirit would eventually rub off on most everyone else and many a day was saved because of it.

"The thing about Vietnam," recalled Jim, "was that when it was over it took a lot of us quite a few years to get our lives straightened out again. So even though I'm not much for telling war stories, I really have enjoyed going to the reunions and finding out how things turned out for everyone. And it's nice to know that everything worked out good for you, too."

After our conversation had finally ended, for days I was flooded by memories of Jim Gratton. But the one that remains the strongest is of him pinned down with his trusted RTO, Terry Houck (I even remember the date -- July 28, 1969) behind a tiny mound of dirt, fighting for his life at the beginning of a deadly ambush that would take our platoon (with the help of armored reinforcements and lots of air support) all day to extricate ourselves from. I remember it so well because I had just joined the ARPS, didn't have a clue what in the world I was doing, but was lucky enough to have been put in Jim Gratton's squad. So, as I clung to the dusty earth with enemy bullets flying all over the darn place, I could clearly see Jim up ahead of me, bare-headed because his steel pot had been blown off, giving as good as he got, and that sight alone gave me hope that everything was somehow going to be okay.

And even though I have now finally at least given it a good try, there really is no way to properly thank the person who gave you the courage to get through the scariest day of your life.

"What are they, what are they for, who gets them, and why should I pay for them?" These are the most valid questions you can ask when searching for a loan, whether it is a purchase, debt consolidation, refinance, or any time you are asking for a mortgage. These questions really never get completely answered. It is sort of "expected" that these costs associated with a loan just "are", and that we will shop around until we find who has the cheapest cost. Anyway, everybody that you call for a mortgage has given you some sort of breakdown, (good faith estimate), and they all have numbers in the same columns as everybody else, so it must be assumed that everybody has the same cost, so just looking around until you find someone that has a lower number in a certain column will be the one that you go with. But there is more than meets the eye...

Here is a short list of who is associated with getting you a mortgage

1.The lender 2. The appraiser 3. The title company 4. The mortgage company 5. The lender's processors 6. The mortgage company processors

There are a lot of steps when getting financing and, many professionals; each in their own specific field, which have a specific function. One cannot work independent of the other, however collectively can provide you the financing you require. Lots of work behind the scenes goes on for your behalf and is necessary given the laws we are governed by. However it doesn't come without a cost, and each one of these parts of the puzzle is due a fee for service.

So the question is, "how much they do they charge for their respective service(s)?" And how much negotiating power do I have?

For answers to these questions and more feel free to call me anytime.

SPORTS INSIDER

The 2005 NCAA Division I Outdoor Track and Field Championships are in the house!

The house of course, is Hornet Stadium at CSUS. Starting on Thursday June 9th more than 1,000 of the nations top male and female athletes will be in Sacramento to compete. The Championship draws the best track athletes from every major college in the United States.

Tickets for the four-day session cost $40 (general admission) or you can purchase single day tickets, which are scheduled to go on sale Wednesday at the Hornet Stadium Ticket Office. Grab your cap and some sun tan lotion and head out to CSUS for an evening of speed and endurance.

NBA Championship

While the San Antonio Spurs were home nursing their walking wounded for eight days the Detroit Pistons and the Shaq attack Heat went toe-to-toe in the East. The Pistons needed seven games to defend their Eastern Conference Title and their wheels must be a little worn out. The NBA Championship starts on Thursday night in San Antonio and the Spurs have the home court advantage!

The bad news for the Eastern Conference champions is the extra time off for the Spurs allowed Tim Duncan time to rest his sore ankle. The Spurs and a healthy Tim Duncan is a deadly combination.

OK, it's time to pick the winner of the 2004/05 NBA Championship. I like the Spurs, who are lucky they won't have to deal with the Shaq under the boards. San Antonio will win the title in six games. But the Boys from Texas won't be going to a picnic because the Motor City Pistons have the experience of pressure games and a balanced attack. Coach Brown is one of the best in the game but Duncan is a monster in the paint. Tim Duncan will have another Championship ring and be named the MVP of the playoffs!

Major League Baseball

The A's (23-23) returned home from their eight game losing streak to go 6-1 on their home stand. The good news is Eric Chavez is finally earning his salary hitting 3 homers in 4 games during their home stand.

The A's called up pitcher Kiko Calero and demoted pitcher Seth Etherton to the River Cats to keep his arm fresh in West Sacramento. The River Gatos will probably receive another player very soon if outfielder Mark Kotsay comes off the disabled list. I hope its not ex-River Cat Dan Johnson, who's hitting .273 and getting quality playing time.

The Giants (24-31) took over the A's losing streak on their East Coast trip taking a beating at the hands of the Phillies and Mets. The G-Men snapped the losing streak by winning the opening game of a twi-night doubleheader at Shea Stadium. The winning streak didn't last very long with the Mets hammering Giants ace Jason Schmidt four six runs in four innings in the second game. Schmidt maybe headed to the DL for another 15-day visit.

The good news for the Giants is they might get well at home playing the lowly Kansas City Royals and hapless Cleveland Indians, while the A's head back east to play in the Nationals in D.C. and the Atlanta Braves.

World Cup Soccer News

The USA men's team took another step closer in securing a spot in the 2006 World Cup in Germany. The men out played Costa Rica winning 3-0 Saturday before a hometown crowd of over 40,000 plus in Salt Lake City, Utah.

Stay up late on Wednesday night, June 8th (1 a.m. – ESPN2) to catch the USA vs. Panama World Cup qualifier. The game will be taped delayed to the USA.

Mexico's 2-0 victory over Guatemala still puts them one point ahead of the USA (9) for the top seed in the North/Central America and Caribbean group. Costa Rica and Guatemala are fighting for the third spot with 4 points each. The fourth place winner advances to a one game playoff against Asia's fifth place finisher.

Boxing News

Iron Mike Tyson (50-5-2, 44 KO) is returning to the ring on Saturday night to fight Kevin McBride in Washington, D.C. I bet you couldn't wait to hear this bit of news. Makes you want to go out and spend $44.95 for this Pay-per-View blockbuster!

Enjoy your day! See ya next week!

CASE NUMBER PB05-086

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, Evelyn Capps Smith AKA Evelyn Smith:

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Jerry L. Smith in the Superior Court of California, County of Yolo.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Jerry L. Smith be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on July 12, 2005, at 8:30 a.m., in Dept. 11, Superior Court of California, County of Yolo, 812 Court St., Woodland, CA 95695.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in Probate Code section 9100. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a "Request for Special Notice" (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A "Request for Special Notice" form is available from the court clerk.

POLICE: narrow winners over firefighters at this year's 'Slam Jam'

Thanks!

The Third Annual Safety Slam Jam Scholarship and Safe and Sober Grad Night fundraiser was held on May 14th. For three years the West Sacramento Police and Fire Departments have volunteered their time to compete in a basketball event which supports the youth of West Sacramento. These departments saw a need to connect with our youth by inspiring them to make safe choices and to dream of a higher education and they cultivated a partnership with the Collings West Sacramento Teen Center, parents of River City High School, CommuniCare and the Washington Unified School District to create the venue. This years players were:

Fire Department -- Terry Dries, Andrew Moore, Daniel Stefani, Mark Cullison, Joe Lugo, Scott Pheifer, Kevin Stedtfeld, David Teuton and Michael Taylor.

Police Department -- Eric Angle, Carl Crouch, Warren Estrada, Mark Kirkland, Jim Reeder, Labin Wilson, Josh Carruth, Dan Duchene, Dan Gill, Tom Maggiano and Trent Tyler.

We would like to thank all the volunteers and supporters of Safety Slam Jam. Also a special thank you to Supervisor Mike McGowan, Marla Wells from the New Y 92.5 "Sacramento's Best Music", Lee Perkins of V101.1 R&B and Old School Station, Yolo County Official Association's very own Arthur Rocha, Ray Simmons, Washington Unified School District, the City of West Sacramento, First Five School Readiness, West Field Healthy Start Family Resource Center, CommuniCare Health Services, Wild West Feed, Vince's Restaurant, Rick's Beacon, Home Capital Funding, Whitey's Jolly Cone, Gorman's Stationary, Grocery Outlet, Candy Barrel, Forever Yours, Homer's Florist, Round Table Pizza, Raley's Supermarkets, All Phase Security, Bentley's Sports, PIP, Printing, Club Pheasant, Sacramento River Cats, News-Ledger, Togo's, Noah's Bagels, Starbucks, Nor-Cal Beverage, Ads Free Event Productions and Hand-N-Hand New Media Fellowship.

Because of your support, the Collings Teen Center and Parents of River City High School earned over $2,000 of scholarship money for our teens.

The Police Department won the game this year by a score of 54 to 46, so if you missed this year's very competitive Safety Slam Jam game, watch for the Fire Department to try and win the trophy back next year. And thanks again to everyone who made the event such a huge success.

Thanks from jazz bands!

On behalf of the RCHS Jazz Band (aka, Syncopating Sea Monkeys) and the GSMS Jazz Band (aka, Jazz Houndz) I would like to thank all those who participated and helped make our Jazz Night Out Event a successful fundraiser.

We would like to express a very special thanks to the Collings Teen Center for the use of their facility and staff. Also, a special thank you to Freddie's Gourmet Deli for the food donated and for the linens. Another huge thank you to Nor-Cal Beverage, Nor-Cal Produce, Pepsi, Richland Planned Communities and Coca-Cola Bottling Company.

We would also like to thank the following businesses and families for their generous donations: VFW Hall, Klines Music, Mr. Contreras (RCHS art teacher), Irene Eklund, Pat Flint, Wal-Mart, Target, Sacramento Kings, Sacramento River Cats, Homer's Florist, Pam Geivett and family, Carla Marquez, Hard Rock Cafe, Johnny Rockets, Los Nopales Restaurant, Lorena Jordan, Quizno's Subs, the Morrison family, the Bakarich family, Raley's, Safeway, the Langford family, Skip's Music, Solar Hair and Nails, Togo's, Vince's Restaurant, and Randy with Entertainment Books.

We truly appreciate the support throughout the community and those individuals who came and enjoyed the music performed by both bands. We also appreciate the support of those who came and watched the Syncopating Sea Monkeys at the Jazz Jubilee.

Because of your tremendous support, we met our goal of sending all of our young musicians to jazz camp this summer.

FELICIA ALLEGER
RCHS Band Director

Choices for students

We have a multi-tiered higher education system (with certain entry standards, i.e., UC, California state colleges, community colleges, et al) that continually complains about the lack of academic preparation of incoming students. Why has the State Board of Education never effectively applied those standards to high school graduation? However, if students haven't the desire, inclination or aptitude for so called higher education, and not everyone does, they should be put on a trade school track as a basic minimum to graduate. Just as they do in Europe.

Yes, another level of coordinated learning should be added to high school: trade arts. Broken down into different categories; industrial arts, computers arts, culinary arts, et cetera, could be offered as everything from simple introductory courses (such as wood, metal, or auto shops), all the way to multi-year apprenticeship programs fiscally and physically partnered with private industry in real world situations. The latter path could be continued beyond the tradition four years of high school through either community colleges and/or real world business sites.

The point is to eliminate unskilled youth aimlessly drifting towards a life of crime and poverty through a successful learning process that instills pride, life skills, and self worth while they are still moldable.

IT'S NOT THAT WE'RE NOSY...

Real estate agents begin their relationship with buyers by asking a lot of questions about the buyer's personal & financial situation. The answers give the agent a clear idea of the buyer's needs and price range. It's a waste of time to look at homes a buyer can't afford.

So your agent needs to have basic information about your income, debts and cash on hand, as well as something about your lifestyle. How big is your family? Where do you work? Do you have school-age children? Do you entertain? What are your hobbies?

The real estate agent who helps you find your new home will get to know you very well. So it's important you feel comfortable with that person and can communicate openly.

HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD ... Michelle Pfeiffer has been away from the screen for quite some time, but now she has signed on for "I Never Could Be Your Woman," a romantic comedy about a highly successful professional woman having big trouble with her love life. This surely does not apply to Michelle's personal life. She has a wonderful marriage to director David E. Kelley. ... Marisa Tomei's next will be "Danika," the story of a woman whose fears for her children are manifested in premonitions of death and all kinds of disasters. ... LeeLee Sobieski stars in "The Optimist," about a family of Russian immigrants whose home is taken over by two car thieves. LeeLee is the daughter who wants out and falls for one of the thieves. Incidentally, did you know her given name is Lilliane Rudabet Gloria Elsveta Sobieski. Little wonder she changed it to LeeLee. ... And two of the biggest names in the business, Liam Neeson and Richard Gere, are set to co-star in "Seraphim Falls" for Mel Gibson's production company.

Michelle Pfeiffer

Aside to Katie G. of Baton Rouge, La. Martin Sheen has four children, not three. You forgot his daughter, Renee. So, there's Emilio, Ramon, Charlie and Renee. Martin's given name is Ramon G. Estevez. His father was Spanish; his mother is Irish.

Not only can Antonio Banderas sing and dance and act, he's also a highly talented director and loves being behind the camera. Now he's returning to his native Spain to helm "El Camino de los Ingleses." If you remember, Antonio made his debut as a director calling the shots on "Crazy in Alabama." Talk about having it all — a beautiful wife, wonderful kids and almost any road he wants to go down in showbiz!

Kathy Bates' next is "Funny Farm," with Malcolm McDowell and Jennifer Jason Leigh. This set in a celebrity drug and alcohol rehab clinic. Interestingly, I'm told the actors will follow only a skeleton script, and will ad lib a lot of their own lines. I can't wait to see what comes out of this.

And this column's deepest bow to Patricia Neal, who recently received her star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame. Talk about overcoming. First a stroke, and then a terrible automobile accident. And now the lady is off on a cruise, or maybe she's back by now. ... Also, congrats to Morgan Freeman for his high honors at the Cannes Film Festival. A great actor, and a wonderful gentleman.

BITS 'N' PIECES: Lucy Liu's next is "Rise" for Universal. ... Kevin Costner and Ashton Kutcher team in an action-drama titled "The Guardian." ... John Travolta and family and Babs Streisand and family attended a bash at Oprah's Montecito mansion. ... Debbie Reynolds with daughter Carrie Fisher spotted at several "Star Wars" premieres, enjoying every minute of the fun and festivities. ... By the time you read this they could have said "I do." However, at this writing Tom Cruise and Katie Holmes were just hugging and kissing and "tied at the hips." Word is that his children, Isabella and Connor, spent Mother's Day with Tom and Katie in lieu of Nicole. ... Big excitement at a baby boutique in West L.A. when Jennifer Garner came shopping and exited with piles of baby "stuff." I forgot to ask whether it was pink or blue. ... And add Sharon Stone's name to your list of new Hollywood mommies. She's adopted another beautiful boy. This one aged about 1 month, and she's named him Laird Vonne Stone. ... Un-bee-lievable how Nick Nolte goes about town. Talk about a bag man. He's the topper. ... And did you know that Goldie Hawn's original job was as a go-go dancer?

CRITIC'S CORNER

By DNA Smith

"Star Wars: Episode III — Revenge of the Sith"

Running time: 146 minutes
MPAA rating: PG-13

Whether you'll like "Revenge of the Sith" depends on your point of view. If you're one of the generation who came of age when the original trilogy was released, you will probably fall into one of two groups: Either you will be so filled with nostalgia that you'll forgive just about every flaw in this film, or you will walk out of the theater with head hung low, crushed by the realization that you've been hoodwinked for three decades by George Lucas' promise of a grand epic mythology — a promise unfulfilled.

Guess which camp I'm in?

If you're willing to sit through all two-and-a-half hours, you'll find a few golden moments: a great fight scene between Yoda and the Emperor, the placing of the mask on Darth Vader's face, and the duel between Anakin and Obi-Wan. This accounts for maybe 20 minutes of the film.

Which means you'll be stuck with more than two hours of clunky dialogue and wooden acting on the part of Hayden Christensen (Anakin Skywalker) and Natalie Portman (Padme Amidala), whose onscreen chemistry is about as steamy as Christmas on Pluto. Christensen's line deliveries are so leaden, you can feel a THUD after he speaks each sentence.

This isn't simply nitpicking on my part. The love story between Anakin and Padme is crucial to the entire plot of the movie, which is about Anakin's fall to the Dark Side of the Force. If their passion isn't believable, then when Anakin does fall prey to the Emperor's machinations, it makes the whole scene unbelievable.

Needless to say, the special effects are first-rate — as they should be since George Lucas has his own special-effects company.

Hayden Christensen

John Williams does his best to bridge the musical themes from the original trilogy and the prequel travesties, with mixed results. Why he chose "Duel of the Fates" from Episode One as the theme to the Yoda/Emperor showdown is a mystery to me.

Of course, what I write really won't matter. "Sith" will make a gajillion dollars. So go. See it for yourself. And I hope you fall into the Overcome With Nostalgia camp, instead of the George Lucas Robbed Me Blind crew.

Books

The Men Who Stare at Goats
by Jon Ronson
(Simon & Schuster, $24)
Reviewed by David Smith

There is a small subculture within the American military and intelligence communities that has been on a quest to find — and maximize — the potential of the paranormal: mind control, invisibility cloaks, telekinesis.

From LSD experiments in the 1950s to the torture chambers of Abu Ghraib, these self-described "Warrior Monks" have experimented with various psychic and paranormal techniques.

In his insightful, funny and sometimes disturbing book, "The Men Who Stare at Goats," investigative journalist Jon Ronson takes a dark, yet deadpan-funny journey into the world of America's national-security Twilight Zone.

Ronson's journey begins as he tracks down a rumor that during Army experiments in a goat-filled building in an undisclosed location, a man successfully stared a goat to death.

I'll repeat that: A man stared a goat to death.

As Ronson searches for this enigmatic goat killer, he encounters Vietnam veteran Lt. Col. Jim Channon.

Channon, who wrote the "First Earth Battalion Operations Manual," is dedicated to training soldiers to see into the future, hear and see other people's thoughts and have "out of body" experiences.

Channon's book has never been officially sanctioned by the military, but Ronson discovers that its impact has been felt during the past 25 years of military operations: from the Waco siege and the Heaven's Gate cult to the treatment of Iraqi prisoners of war.

"The Men Who Stare at Goats" will have you shaking your head in disbelief at how much time and money our government has spent on High Weirdness, and cringing at the thought that the men involved in these operations are dead serious.

You'll never look at a goat the same way again.

Books reviewed in this column are available at your local bookstore.

SUIT TO OUST BOYD MENAGERIE FROM WEST SACRAMENTO INDICATES EARLY ACTION ON VIRDEN PACKING PLANT

The compromise reached between Dr. D. B. Boyd and the West Sacramento Co. effected last Saturday in Woodland paved the way for action in building the Virden Packing Plant in the near future.

It is understood that Boyd will be provided through this compromise with another site for his menagerie and that in addition he was given a money settlement equivalent to the amount spent by him in improvements.

The site picked out for the new location of the menagerie is nearer to Sacramento and immediately north of the property owned by the United States Fiber Products Co.

Boyd's lease on the ten acres near West Sacramento headquarters extended for several years to come, and the request for his ousting, it is believed, was made necessary by the contemplation of building activity on the part of the Virden Packing Company.

The suit was settled to the satisfaction of both litigants and Boyd will take immediate steps to change his quarters.

Other tenants of this property in the immediate vicinity of Boyd's headquarters are also taking steps to move their homes farther down the district. Having no leases these latter must move as soon as possible.

The line or spur for tracks of the Southern Pacific Company is to be extended to this site and as soon as possible material will be

Men! This sale will save you money. The new prices are here. Gus Marks leads the way. $1.50 Heavy Fleece-Lined Cotton Undermoved thereon for the Virden Packing plant building.

It is understood that the Southern Pacific spur will leave the main line at a point just west of Mikon and will run easterly several hundred yards, thence southerly to the northern end of Michigan avenue. In crossing the Oakland-Antioch right-of-way the S. P. track will meet it at the county highway just north of the present location of Boyd's headquarters.

Since 1916 Dr. Boyd has been located on this property and has made extensive improvements in the shape of buildings, corrals and housing for his animals. He usually made an annual trip to the Orient in quest of wild animals and curriosities, in which business he is an adept and from which he makes considerable profit.

Stockholders of the Virden Packing Company will have their annual meeting on February 21st, at which time plans for the coming year will be outlined and which plans, it is understood, mean that the building will be completed in time to handle the crops of the coming fall.

C. E. Virden is in Chicago at this writing endeavoring to secure better rates and better time for fruit shipments from California points to the East. Report has it that he and a powerful committee accompanying him have already been successful.

BENEFIT DANCE FOR CATHOLIC CHURCH AT TOWN HALL JAN. 29

To help out the Catholic church of Washington several ladies are preparing to hold a dance at the Town Hall on Saturday evening, January 29th.

For the occasion the ladies have secured two beautiful door prizes, and in addition have hired one of the best jazz bands that could be secured.

Already tickets have been sold by the members of the committee in charge and judging from the demand there should be a large crowd in attendance. Many Sacramento friends have voluntarily offered their services to help along and are even selling tickets in Sacramento.

The committee in charge consists of E. Moss, A. Marty, Sr.; A. Marty, Jr.; J. S. Lear, Max Ortiz, Frank Schmucker, Mrs. Mary Traversi, Miss Mary Anater and Mrs. Olga Machado.

Other ladies of the church are going to decorate the hall before the evening of the dance.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF MICHAEL P. GARTEN
CASE NUMBER PB05-099

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of Michael P. Garten:

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Larry E. Jones in the Superior Court of California, County of Yolo.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Larry E. Jones be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on July 19, 2005, at 8:30 a.m., in Dept. 11, Superior Court of California, County of Yolo, 812 Court St., Woodland, CA 95695.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in Probate Code section 9100. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a "Request for Special Notice" (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A "Request for Special Notice" form is available from the court clerk.
